RGO CLASS | SEASON CHALLENGE

How the season works

A one page guide for players. Keep it in your notebook.

First name	Class code	Season start	Season end

The season challenge is a long stock market game. You play on your own with RGO Cash and trade real companies at their real closing prices, from the start date your teacher sets until the season end date. RGO Cash is practice money for the game. It is not real money. The player worth the most at the end wins.

1. Join

- Go to class.risegrowown.org and type the class code.
- If it asks Which game?, pick Season challenge.
- Type your first name and make a 4 number PIN. Only your first name. Remember your PIN: the same name and PIN get you back in on any device.

2. Every buy needs a stop

- Pick a stock, how many shares, and a stop price below the last closing price (within 50% of it).
- If the stock closes at or below your stop, all your shares of it are sold at that close. One bad stock cannot sink your season.
- Example: buy 20 shares at $50 with a stop at $45. It closes at $44, so the stop sells all 20 for $880. You lose $120 instead of $400 if it fell to $30.
- Keep each stock under your teacher's limit, often 25% of your RGO Cash.

3. Orders fill at the next market close

- Nobody knows the closing price ahead of time, so every order waits in Waiting for the close.
- An order placed before 4 PM New York time (Eastern time) on a school day fills at that day's close.
- After 4 PM, on a weekend or on a market holiday, it fills at the next school day's close.
- Prices arrive overnight, so you see your fill the next morning. You can cancel a waiting order before it fills.
- If your RGO Cash does not cover every share at the closing price, you get as many shares as it covers.

4. Take-profit (optional)

- A take-profit is a goal price above the last close (under double it).
- If the stock closes at or above it, all your shares of it are sold at that close and you keep the gain.
- Change your stop or take-profit any time on My stocks.

5. Ranks and titles

- The leaderboard ranks everyone by net worth: RGO Cash plus your shares at the last closing price.
- Market Leader: number 1 right now.
- Podium Trader: in the top 3 right now.
- Top Ten Trader: in the top 10 right now (when 12 or more players are in the season).
- Longest Champion: the most days at number 1 this season.
- You need at least one trade to earn a rank title. You also earn XP for each day you finish in the top 3.

6. The records board

- Your class keeps its records: the best return ever, the longest champion, and the winners of past seasons.
- This season so far shows the record to beat. Set a new one and your first name goes on the board.

7. The end of the season

- The season runs until the season end date. The last close that counts is the end date's close.
- Waiting orders that have not filled by then are cancelled. Shares you still own count at their last close.

RGO Class, a Rise Grow Own program. Practice game with real daily closing prices and RGO Cash, the game's practice money. No real money. Education only, not investment advice.